

JAMES SCHULZ DISSERTATION FUND

Dr. James Schulz

The James Schulz Dissertation Fund was established by Heller alumni in honor of Emeritus Heller Professor Dr. James Schulz's retirement. Dr. Schulz's colleagues and former students created the fund to support Heller PhD students conducting their dissertation research.

Dr. Schulz received his undergraduate degree from Miami University and his PhD in Economics from Yale University. He is an expert in the economics of aging, including social security, pensions, retirement policies, and older worker employment issues and was appointed President of the Gerontological Society of America in 1982. Among his many publications is the Economics of Aging, 7th edition. A longtime faculty member of Heller, he remains interested in learning about the students who benefit from the fund.
